

Be Happy With What You Have

(This article has been published in the South China Morning Post.)

4B So Wai Kit, Kid

Money plays a vital role in our life. We need money to buy our basic necessities, such as food and clothes.

The reason why we study so hard is not to enhance our knowledge, but to get good exam results, have a better job and earn more money in the future.

Money can satisfy most of our physical desires. However, money cannot always bring happiness.

It cannot buy families, love and friendship.

Perhaps you would say: “I have a lot of money and friends.”

But they may not be your true friends. They may just want your money.

A friend in need is a friend indeed. Those who care about you and help you get through difficulties are your true friends.

You may not have money forever, but memories will never fade away.

People who earn a lot of money may not be happy even though they have all the things they need. But I’m sure those who are content with what they have can lead a delightful life.